I have had my travel business for less than twelve months and the benefits have already been fantastic!

Thanks to now being an industry insider, we travel so much more, experience more, and go to places I could only dream of before doing this.

The flexibility of this business allows me to work where and when I like, fitting it around what I already do. Simply by planning holidays for others and by sharing this, I help others looking for more freedom and balance in their life.

My story

After 20 years in the corporate world of education, and seeking adventure and purpose, I left that part of my career and launched a consultancy to support local entrepreneurs to start, run and grow their businesses.

Then a client asked about travel. Around that time, I met my upline at a networking event, and on that sunny day in a car park, a seed was planted that changed everything. It was an easy decision for me to turn my love of travel into another business and run that alongside my consultancy.

What I've learned so far?

- I miss working with brilliant people - this business fills that gap and more.
- I understand the compensation plan and see how it could help me retire my husband earlier.
- I'm in control of what I do and how I do it.
- I've gained skills I'm using in my other business.

This business has reignited something in me. It's about travel, purpose, freedom, and helping others build a life that feels good.
